Sustainable Community Development in Tanzania is a six-week education abroad program that takes place in northern Tanzania focusing on the study and practice of development. Students will learn about the history of development in Tanzania, various approaches to development work, and MSU's current development strategies in rural Tanzania. Students will have a chance to apply what they learn in the classroom through a hands-on community engagement program in a Tanzanian village, partnering with Tanzanian students from universities in Tanzania. The program will also include weekend excursions, linguistic and cultural orientation, including a home stay with a local family.
