New Deadline: March 30, 2018

There is still time for students to apply for this year's International Studies & Programs scholarships and grant opportunities. The deadline for application has been extended to March 30th, 2018. The three awards available for the 2018-2019 academic year are:

Claffey Meyer International Travel Grant

- This award provides financial assistance to domestic students who intend to travel to developing countries for the purpose of providing technical assistance, participate in research, or engage in service. The intent is for students to work towards discovering and implementing solutions in response to urgent human needs (for example: food security, environmental quality, health and nutrition, education, and other areas) and, thereby, to encourage careers in international development teaching, research and practice. Grants are intended to support travel, related living expenses, and projects costs, not to be used as a tuition scholarship.

Dr. Charles and Marjorie Gliozzo Dissertation Research Scholarship

- This scholarship is available to MSU doctoral students with dissertation research objectives who have defended, or are in the process of defending, a dissertation proposal. The scholarship supports field research abroad in support of the student's dissertation.

Walker Hill Scholarship

- An award for an MSU doctoral student at pre-dissertation stage who has completed adequate credits to have pre-dissertation research objectives. Description, appropriateness and feasibility of pre-dissertation research objectives to be accomplished during the period spent abroad. Financial need may be considered, previous recipients of a Walker Hill award or an ISP Predissertation Travel Award are not eligible. To be used for pre-dissertation visits to the site of the doctoral research in a country outside the United States (for international students, research in one's own country does not qualify).

Please see each link for more information about the award, including necessary application materials and submission procedures. If you have any questions or problems submitting, please contact Justin Rabineau at (517)355-2350 or rabinea1@msu.edu.

"Must Herskovitz Fall?" Whiteness & African Studies..."

Professor Jean Allman Presentation at University of Michigan

April 17 2018, 4pm- 6pm: 4701 Haven Hall

On Tuesday, April 17, 2018 Professor Jean Allman will be visiting U-M from Washington University, St Louis. The workshop will meet as usual from 4-6PM in 4701 Haven Hall.

The provisional title of her paper is: "Must Herskovitz Fall? A Meditation on Whiteness, African Studies, and the Unfinished Business of 1968." This paper is a draft of Professor Allman's 2018 Presidential Address for the African Studies Association Annual meeting. Paper will be circulated one week prior to the workshop.

Professor Jean Allman's research is concerned with questions of nation and national identity, gender and colonialism, fashion and the politics of clothing, and the modernity and mobility of indigenous belief systems. Her new project is aimed at re-examining "nation times" - a time when the West African state of Ghana was a pivotal site for imagining an entirely new, non-aligned world; when Ghanaians, joined by a host of transnational actors (African-American activists and intellectuals, Irish and Welsh nationalists, anti-nuclear peace activists, South African communists, Caribbean Pan-Africanists) cooperated, colluded and collided over how to build a non-racial, anti-imperialist, nuclear free world at the height of the Cold War. She is author of "I Will Not Eat Stone": A Woman's History of Colonial Asante" (2000); "Fashioning Africa: Power and the Politics of Dress" (2004) and TONGNAAB: The History of a West African God (2005).
