Call for Papers

DIGITAL HUMANITIES AND THE FUTURE OF CHRONICLING THE AFRICAN PAST

For our initial themed volume, History in Africa is seeking contributions on the intersection of the study of Africa and the burgeoning field of Digital Humanities. This open call will serve as a bridge to the special section on "Digital History in African Studies" featuring articles on digitizing archives and teaching in the 2020 volume of History in Africa.

We invite contributions that address African history and the Digital Humanities in relation

FLAS Scholarship

Fellowships for graduate and undergraduate studies in African languages and area studies are available through the African Studies Center, provided by a grant from the U.S. Department of Education. They are designed for American (or permanent resident) students who plan to utilize a modern foreign language in their future careers.

FLAS Fellowships provide academic year undergraduates with $10,000 towards tuition and fees, and a stipend of $5,000. For graduate students, FLAS Fellowships provide $18,000 toward tuition and fees for to methods, source analysis, historiographical debate, audiences, and tools. We also will accept proposals for a new section on "Interview with an Archivist" as an update to our section on "Archival Reports."

Please submit a 500 word abstract and a 2-page CV to managingeditor@historyinafrica.org by December 15, 2019. By January 15th, authors will be notified whether to submit a full article for peer review by April 1, 2020. Please note that invitations to submit articles for peer review do not guarantee publication.

Articles selected for publication after peer review will be included in the 2021 volume of History in Africa. Articles may appear in advance of the publication date via FirstView once the copy editing process is completed. Any queries should be addressed to managingeditor@historyinafrica.org.
